

Task Force on the Americas March 2010 Delegation

HONDURAS REPORT BACK

Initially the US Administration condemned the coup which ousted democratically-elected President Manuel Zelaya; but the administration failed to condemn publicly the abuses suffered by the Honduran people and, in fact, proceeded to recognize the elections that took place under these conditions.

Andres Conteris, Latin America correspondent for Democracy Now!, and Bay Area activists will report on their recent delegation to Honduras. They will discuss the repression, which has escalated from random attacks on the ever-growing resistance population to an assassination campaign targeting resistance leaders, supporters, and journalists.
